

ABSTRACT

An apparatus receiving request data from a request source and providing response data
5 corresponding to the request data, comprises a control information recording unit recording control information related to an area of which data is restricted from being provided; an edit unit creating, when the data should be provided as the response data,
10 the response data in accordance with the control information by hiding the data area restricted from being provided; and a transmitting unit providing the response data.